

Tom Shoebridge, Mentor

Get Your Story Straight for emerging and mid-career writers with an idea for a feature film.

Tom Shoebridge is one of Canada's most experienced teachers of screenwriting, and his students have won a number of awards both in Canada and around the world for their work.

He is the Founder of Canada's first film and television training school which he headed for 29 years.

As well, he created the first year-long screenwriting program at Algonquin College in Ottawa which is still offering professional level training to emerging writers from across Canada and abroad.

Tom brings passion and enthusiasm to his workshops, and he encourages participants to realize their talents during Bootcamp.
